

FEA Code of Ethics and Professional Standards

| The code applies to all FEA designates

VISION AND PURPOSE OF THE CODE

As family enterprise advisors, we are committed to maintaining the highest standards of professionalism. FEA designates come from a variety of professional disciplines, many with their own codes. Becoming an FEA designate, however, represents a willingness to adhere to the Code of Ethics and Professional Standards outlined below. We set high standards for ourselves as well as our business and we aspire to meet these standards in all aspects of our professional lives.

The FEA Code describes the expectations that we have for ourselves and our fellow practitioners in the family enterprise advising community. Our goal is to instill confidence in the family enterprise advising profession. We do this by establishing a profession-wide understanding of appropriate behaviour. We believe that the credibility and reputation of the family enterprise advising profession is shaped by the collective conduct of individual practitioners. We also believe that this Code will assist us in making wise decisions, particularly when faced with difficult situations where we may be asked to compromise our integrity or our values.

The FEA Code is overarching—reaching across disciplines and governing the aspects specific to Family Enterprise Advising. The object of the FEA Code is to be additive to our members' current professional designation. In the unlikely event of conflicts between professional codes of conduct, the discipline-specific code would apply to technical advising, while the FEA Code would govern the aspects specific to family enterprise advising.

By becoming certified by Family Enterprise Canada, each designate undertakes and agrees:

1. To comply with:
 - a. All laws and regulations applicable to the organizations on which he/she serves;
 - b. The written codes of conduct of all organizations with which he/she is associated; and
 - c. The Codes of Ethics and Professional Standards of FEA and all other professional codes for bodies and associations to which he/she belongs.
2. To conduct him/herself in a manner that supports the Purpose, Vision, Mission and Goals of FEA as articulated in the appendix.
3. To maintain membership in good standing in Family Enterprise Canada.
4. To obtain and keep current any necessary or required professional insurance. Should a designate's other primary profession/designation not require or provide insurance, we will assist the designate to find appropriate coverage.
5. To commit each year to ongoing professional development and learning, and to complete the required hours of approved continuing education in the field of Family Enterprise.

THE FEA CODE

As a FEA designate, these Eight Principles govern our behaviour. We aspire to hold these principles as our priority, governing our activities as they pertain to Family Enterprise Advising. The principles are stated below, with full definitions in the following section.

Responsibility: We take responsibility for our choices and conduct.

1. Respect: We show respect to our clients, our colleagues and to the advising process.
2. Fairness: We act with fairness and transparency.
3. Conflict of interest: We disclose potential conflict of interest.
4. Confidentiality: We protect our clients' confidentiality.
5. Professional judgment and competence: We use sound judgment and act with competence in all professional engagements.
6. Honesty and integrity: We conduct ourselves and our affairs with honesty and integrity.
7. Priority of clients' interests: We place our clients' interest and welfare as our highest priority.

The FEA Code Defined:

Responsibility: We take responsibility for our choices and conduct

We define responsibility as the proper custody, care, and safekeeping of the interests entrusted to an individual by a client or by society. With responsibility goes authority to direct and take the necessary action to ensure success. Responsibility is acting in a manner which will enhance the image of the Profession and the Institute.

How do we behave responsibly?

- a. We take ownership for the decisions we make or fail to make in our professional lives. This includes the actions we take or fail to take, and the consequences that result. We strive to make decisions and take actions based on the best interests of families, society, public safety, and the environment.
- b. We inform ourselves and uphold the policies, rules, regulations, and laws that govern our work, professional, and volunteer activities.
- c. We report unethical or illegal conduct to the attention of the appropriate body for resolution and, if necessary, to those affected by the conduct. We only file complaints when they are substantiated by facts. We pursue disciplinary action against an individual who retaliates against a person raising ethics concerns.

8. Respect: We show respect to our clients, our colleagues and to the advising process.

We define respect as the due regard for the wishes and rights of others. Respect fosters a high regard for ourselves, others, and the resources (personal, financial, environmental and others) entrusted to us. Respect creates an environment that stimulates trust, confidence, and performance excellence by fostering mutual cooperation – an environment where diverse perspectives and views are encouraged and valued.

How do we act with respect?

- a. We seek to inform ourselves about the norms and customs of others and avoid engaging in behaviours they might consider disrespectful. We listen to others' points of view, seeking to understand them.

- b. We deal directly with those persons with whom we have a conflict or disagreement. We conduct ourselves in a professional manner, even when it is not reciprocated. We seek to reconcile, and use good judgment to de-escalate potentially harmful situations.
- c. We negotiate in good faith.

3. Fairness: We act with fairness and transparency.

Fairness requires impartiality, intellectual honesty, and disclosure of material conflicts of interest. It involves a subordination of one's own feelings, prejudices, and desires so as to achieve a proper balance of conflicting interests. Fairness is treating others in the same fashion that you would want to be treated.

How do we practice fairness?

- a. We work to make decisions and act impartially and objectively. We guard against conduct with competing self-interest, prejudice, and favouritism. We do not discriminate against others.
- b. We aspire to demonstrate transparency in our decision-making process. We constantly re-examine our impartiality and objectivity, taking corrective action as appropriate. We provide equal access to information to those who are authorized to have that information.

4. Conflict of Interest: We disclose potential conflict of interest.

Conflict of interest refers to any interest or relationship likely to affect impartiality or which might create an appearance of partiality or bias. FEA designates must exhibit independence and impartiality.

How do we avoid conflict of interest?

- a. Our duty is to avoid real or perceived conflicts of interest whenever possible and will disclose them to all affected parties. We will proactively and fully disclose any real or potential conflicts of interest to the appropriate stakeholders.
- b. When we realize that we have a real or potential conflict of interest, we refrain from engaging in the decision-making process or otherwise attempting to influence outcomes, unless or until: we have made full disclosure to the affected stakeholders; we have an approved mitigation plan; and we have obtained the consent of the stakeholders to proceed.
- c. We have a duty to provide a client with all information obtained in the course of conducting their engagement which is pertinent to the decisions the client is contemplating.

5. Confidentiality: We protect our clients' confidentiality

- a. Our duty is to protect proprietary or confidential information as well as client identity that have been entrusted to us and will not disclose it without the written consent of the client.

6. Professional judgment and competence: We use sound judgment and act with competence in all professional engagements.

Professional judgment and competence means attaining and maintaining an adequate level of knowledge and skill, and application of that knowledge and skill in providing services to clients. It also includes the wisdom to recognize the limitations of that knowledge and when consultation with other professionals is appropriate or referral to other professionals necessary. Professionalism requires behaving with dignity and courtesy to clients, fellow professionals, and others in business-related activities.

How do we show our professional judgment and competence?

- a. We make a continuing commitment to learning and professional improvement.
- b. When we make errors or omissions, we take ownership and make corrections promptly. When we discover errors or omissions caused by others, we communicate them to the appropriate body as soon as they are discovered. We accept accountability for any issues resulting from our errors or omissions and any resulting consequences.
- c. Designates cooperate with fellow practitioners to enhance and maintain the profession's public image and improve the quality of services.

7. Honesty and Integrity: We conduct ourselves and our affairs with honesty and integrity.

Honesty and integrity demand truthfulness and candor which must not be subordinated to personal gain and advantage. Designates are placed in positions of trust by clients, and the ultimate source of that trust is the designates' personal integrity. Allowance can be made for innocent error and legitimate differences of opinion, but honesty and integrity cannot co-exist with deceit or subordination of one's principles.

How do we act with honesty and integrity?

- a. We seek to understand the truth and act in a truthful manner both in our communications and in our conduct. We make commitments and promises, implied or explicit, in good faith.
- b. We strive to create an environment in which others feel safe to tell the truth. We do not engage in dishonest behaviour with the intention of personal gain or at the expense of another.

8. Priority of clients' interests: We place our clients' interest and welfare as our highest priority.

We define the priority of clients' interests as the act of maintaining a client's welfare as the highest principle in the advising relationship, placing their needs and interests above all others, particularly self-interest. It refers to the relationship of trust and confidentiality inherent in the role of a Family Enterprise Advisor.

How do we ensure the priority of clients' interests?

- a. FEA designates maintain the best interests of clients as a priority, with due regard to the respective interests of others.
- b. Designates recognize that there must be a certain hierarchy of interests in order to maintain trust: first client and family interests, then employer interests and lastly personal interests.

"These professional standards outline expectations Family Enterprise Canada has of their FEA Designates and in particular what family enterprise clients can expect from them. These standards apply equally to all FEA Designates regardless of their role, job description or area of practice. The privilege of being an FEA Designate comes with a professional obligation to at all times maintain the FEA Professional Standards"
